Outstanding senior men . . .

ODK recruits four seniors in Monday tapping ceremony

Four years of participation in university life at OU paid off for four senior men Monday. The local chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership honor society for senior men, welcomed them to its organization in the annual tapping ceremonies.

Delmar Hansen leads the newly elected members scholastically with a 3.54 average. A member of the University Players, he was also an announcer for the annual KBON Day. Besides membership to ODK, Hansen belongs to Phi Eta Sigma, Sigma Phi Epsilon, national social fraternity, Sigma Tau Delta, Future Teachers of America and Alpha Psi Omega.

Dean R. Brown sports a 3.23 scholastic average, besides membership cards in a number of campus social organizations. He was also chosen for his participation in religious activities and athletics. He is the president of the Independent Students' Association, and will serve as chairman at the regional convention at OU in 1952. He was also president of the Junior Class. Athletic activities include a year of Papoose football and participation in the major intramural sports.

John Robert Hanson's 2.88 scholastic average and his participation in social and religious activities gained him a membership to ODK. He is president of the University Players, a member of Theta Phi Delta, local social fraternity, Alpha Psi Omega and the Inter-pep Council. He was vice president of Warriors, men's pep organization.

Barney Kadis averaged 2.85 during his college career and was also active in social and religious activities. He is a member of Phi Epsilon Pi, national social fraternity, chairman of the School Relations Committee, holds membership to the Interfraternity Council, is president of Alpha Phi Omega, scouting fraternity, and a member of the Inter-Pep Council.

Art museums accept Mayhall paint exhibit

Paintings by Dorothy Mayhall, art instructor at Omaha University, will be included in two national art exhibitions during January and February.

The New Britain Art Museum, New Britain, Conn., has accepted two of her etchings, "Understatement No. 1" and "Summer at the Beach."

The Terry Art Institute of Miami, Fla., will exhibit "Christmas Eve," a casein painting by Miss Mayhall.

Zerbe, Sarooian now Audrey' leads as Revue directors open rehearsals

Beauty Contest practice Monday

Dress rehearsal for the 1952 Tomahawk Beauty Contest will be held Monday afternoon in the auditorium.

Attendance by contestants is required.

Contestants will wear formal-length dresses for the 3 p.m. rehearsal. The formals need not be the same that will be worn during the contest on Tuesday.

Settings and final plans for the event are nearly complete, commented Co-chairmen Joan Bugbee and Marilyn Mellam. Stage props will include pillars decorated with angel hair and Christmas bead strings. A U-shaped ramp will be used.

Judges will sit on both sides of the stage, three on one side and two on the other. The contestants will be judged on overall appearance, poise, charm, physical appearance and personality.

Forsythe, Klopfleisch select cast of 36 for original musical comedy on Jan. 11, 12

Jackie Zerbe and Don Sarooian have been chosen for the leads in "Audrey," the original comedy to be presented as the 1952 Tom Tom Revue. The production will be given Jan. 11 and 12.

Warriors will reveal top '51 Indian cager

Who was the "Outstanding OU Basketball Player of 1951?"

This question will be answered Tuesday noon at the first basketball pep rally of the season. The Warriors, men's pep organization will present a trophy to the top player as chosen by the opponent teams.

Other highlights of the rally will be the introduction of coach Don Pflasterer and the cage team, and a skit presented by the cheerleaders. Also included on the program are cheers and singing of the school song.

Miss Zerbe will play the title role, that of a cafe entertainer who both helps and hinders the two song writers, Parky and Smith. Sarooian plays the part of Parky, a song writer who finally wins his way into the heart of Audrey.

Simpson as comic

Parky is assisted in his composing by an idiot comic along the Jerry Lewis lines, named Smith. Type-cast in the part is Charlie Simpson.

The second male lead is played by Jim McPherson, in the part of Burt, the cafe owner. Suzi Thompson plays opposite him as Lillian.

Lillian's father, Harry Wins-ton, is an absent-minded song publisher, portrayed by Phil Abramson.

Cyrano, a song thief played by Don Blocker, and Kate, his female cohort played by Joanne Gross, carry much of the comedy.

Completing the cast are Leonore Marx as Miss Sampson, Jim DuBois as Lonnie, Dick Smith as a gambler and Bonnie Burgess as president of the Lion Hunters.

Chorus of 16

A total of 16 students have been chosen for the singing chorus. Sopranos are Jean Mad- den, Millicent Wheeler, Shirley Hawkins and Ruth Longville, with Roberta Stanage, Nancy Hileman, Mary Rispler and Bonnie Wilson as altos.

Tenors are Joy Fields, Ken Rumery, Harold Winslow and Ted Romberg, while basses are Cliff Soubier, Harlan Peterson, Don Bucknam and Tom Romberg.

The dancing chorus is made up of Joan Olsen, Gloria John-son, Marilyn Mellam, Sandra Chullino, San D'Agosta, Jim Daley, Leonard Lefitz and Ben Butler. Helen Burhorn is dance director and feature solo dancer.

Supervising the production are Dr. Edwin Clark, professor of dramatics, and Dr. Robert Fiester, head of the Music Department.

ROTC promotes --

Twelve cadets gain new rank

Promotions of 12 Air ROTC cadets have been announced by Lt. Col. Allen H. Wood, professor of air science and tactics at OU.

Advanced to the rank of first lieutenant are Franklin Sedlacek and Robert Stryker. Named to the corporal rank are Edmond Berney, William Borowiak, Donald Chase, Danny Langevin, Santo Marasco, Martin Nearensberg, Louis Pantano, Duane Post, Melvin Rousek and Douglas Wright.

The ROTC's Arnold Society is working on a new program for Explorer Scouts. The program includes six months of training in flight operations with classes conducted by the AF-ROTC staff and cadets.

More than 50 cadets have been named to take tests for the rank of sergeant on Monday.

OU will sponsor journalism clinic

High school journalism students will visit Omaha U Feb. 8 for the third consecutive year.

On that date OU will be host to students from more than 140 schools at the annual High School Journalism Clinic. High school editors, journalism teachers and publications staffs will attend the day-long session, according to W. Wilson Cliff, Gateway sponsor.

The 1952 Clinic will again feature a contest in several areas of high school journalism. High school papers will be judged on nine points: best news story, best sports story, best feature, best editorial, best news photo, best front page, best editorial and feature page, best sports page, and best headlines on a single page.

No speakers or panel leaders have been chosen.

December calendar shows overload - Vacation heads agenda as convo, contest, Deans' Tea are scheduled

December promises to be an event-packed month for OU students in spite of the two-week lapse during Christmas vacation.

Today the Christmas Pop Concert was presented by the University Band in the auditorium. The Student Council will sponsor its regular Coffee Hour Monday at 8:30 p.m. in room 100.

Beauty contest

The Tomahawk will sponsor its annual Beauty Contest Tuesday afternoon in the auditorium. Thirty contestants will parade before the five judges in the three-hour event.

Concert band opens holiday season with annual program

The annual Christmas Pop Concert, presented by the OU concert band, set off the holiday season on a musical note at a convocation this morning in the school auditorium. Traditional Christmas carols, yuletide songs, and selections from Handel's "Messiah" highlighted the program.

The 55-piece band, conducted by Dr. Robert Fiester, presented the hour-long program after several weeks' preparation.

Brass sextette

Bill Miller, Robert Payne, Jack Bourdess, Rolly Klopfleisch, Robert Fiester, and Donald Bucknam, members of the brass sextette, played "Suite Miniature."

Millicent Wheeler set the holiday mood with her soprano solo, "O Holy Night." Tenor Jack Bourdess added to the Christmas theme with a solo, "Coventry Christmas Carol."

Madrigals

Carols were sung by the madrigal group, consisting of Arlene Madson, Marian Tyndale, Joanne Pierce, Barbara Comstock, Jack Bourdess, Bob Cahill, Frank Lepinski and Jim Daley.

Speech students present radio, television programs

Members of the OU Radio Department are appearing on both radio and television during December.

Directed by Roland Klopfleisch, a special chorus to back the narration of "Paul Revere's Ride" may be heard over radio station KOWH Dec. 30 at 10 a.m.

An account of the "Great Debate of 1850" was presented by the advanced public speaking class on WOW-TV Monday at 9:45 p.m.

TALES OF SHRDLU

By Berk Forsythe

And another Gateway feature editor bites the dust. Jim Bourne, late of the "Bourne says" Gateway column, has recently passed into history. In honor of a fellow feature writer who has seen better days, I have composed the following pastoral elegy in iambic trimeter.

Oh, weep for Jim this morn,
His OU flocks are shorn.

Alone to grind out corn,

Alone in public scorn.

Alas, that Jim was Bourne!

Seriously, though, since Jim Bourne has quit school to pay more attention to his printing plant and family, I'd like to welcome in some new feature writers to the page. At the head of the list is Marty Blacker, the boy who's responsible for a good half of the libel in this issue. We're expecting this boy to go places—maybe another university. He looks like good material for the music college up the river—Sing Sing.

Wardle reports coat 'kicking around office'

Has anyone lost a blue-green sport coat recently?

Dr. Ralph Wardle, head of the English Department, has reported to The Gateway that a blue-green sport coat with a Nebraska Clothing label has been "kicking around my office for the past two weeks."

If no one claims the coat, The Gateway will publish two more notices, after which Dr. Wardle will raffle it off.

Coat stolen

Third Precinct Police Dept.: A man in shirt sleeves reported to the police that his blue-green sport coat was stolen off of his back by a scholarly looking gentleman with a copy of "Mary Wollstonecraft" under his arm. The plaintiff said the coat had been missing for about two weeks.

Personal

Jane: I am sorry for my suspicions. Come back. All is forgiven. I now realize how much you mean to me. And I know you were right when you said that I shouldn't be jealous of that man in the blue-green sport coat. Please come back. Joe.

Radio personnel record programs

KWOU, the campus radio station, will again broadcast Monday. The station was initiated last year under the direction of Bruce Linton, Head of the Speech Department.

The Radio Department has been busy for the past several weeks doing a choral version of "Paul Revere's Ride," which was recorded last Tuesday. The music was directed by Rollie Klopfleisch, and Dick Smith took the part of the narrator.

This program will be broadcast over KOWH either Dec. 16 or 30 at 10 a.m.

Dickens dramatized

At present the department is running rehearsals on Dickens' "Christmas Carol," which will be recorded this afternoon. This show will be presented over KOWH Dec. 23 at 10 a.m.

Don Sarooian is playing the part of Scrooge, Bob Cahill will portray Bob Cratchet, and Bonnie Burgess will be Mrs. Cratchet. Dick Palmquist is the narrator and Don Blocker the nephew. Ghosts will be played by Del Hansen, Dick Smith and Mary Rispler.

Ann McTaggart and Leonore Marx will do about three bit parts each to complete the cast.

"We Three" record

Another project for the department has been the "We Three" recordings, starring Mary Rispler, Irv Jones and Ben Butler. Mr. Linton expressed hopes to place this 15-minute show on some radio station weekly. It features late-evening music.

Mary Rispler will sing the ballads, Irv Jones will play the piano and Ben Butler will do the announcing.

Back to the Indians

One day last year Librarian Ellen Lord walked to the middle of the library and announced, "You're disturbing people out in the hall." She was addressing students in the library for gab sessions rather than for studying.

Group activity is a fine thing in its place, but the library is not that place. Those of us engaged in such boisterous library activity often find we are wasting time needed for class assignments. Besides this, we are disturbing others who are trying to practice the popular Midwestern philosophy of isolationism.

Bull sessions are an important part of college education, but there are more appropriate places for holding them than the library. Those of us who can't outshout the Shack crowd can try the lounge, or, if we pick the right time, the cafeteria. Beyond that there are always the cars and Elmwood Park.

We need to get in training if we are to make the best use of the proposed new library building. Why would any intelligent Regent vote for a new library if he can find no evidence that students know how to behave in the present one? Don't count on the vast open spaces of the proposed library to absorb the sounds. By that time OU will have a vast student body, too, so conditions will be relatively the same. The time to go into training is now. The place is the present library.

Let's confine our group activities and bull sessions to the lower levels. Let's give the library back to the Indians, who were always notably solitary and silent.

Blacker babbles --

Mob in action arouses curiosity of columnist

It's interesting to note the psychological whims of a mob in action. We had the opportunity of doing same when we were rudely packed into one of Omaha and C. B.'s finer street conveyances—without the usual price of admission.

The occasion was the S. A. C. parade of which OU's blue suited four-button roll contingent was a part.

With approximately 100 students per bus, normal control was impossible. We observed the following behavior:

Many laughed hysterically at the thought of bouncing white smoke rings off of a sign at the front of the bus bearing the words "Smoking Prohibited."

Near the downtown area, one cadet forced his garrison-capped head through a half-open window and began explaining in stentorian tones, "Now let me tell you how I won the war."

About two blocks from parade formation a hapless cop's motorcycle was stalled in the path of the bus. Under the invectives by delighted students he finally got his three wheeler out of the way.

Just as the bus driver could take no more, the end of the line loomed ahead. With all playful energy out of their systems and with the big parade at hand, military training arrested the "mob's" behavior.

Speaking of hapless cops, we read an interesting story from the archives of Brown University which might redden the cheeks of OU's "Officer 2" for the sake of his badged brethren.

It seems that two Brown students walked into a Providence, R. I., barber shop and asked the startled clipper how much he would take for his striped barber pole.

"Fifteen dollars," he said, and forthwith the money was produced. After receiving a bill of sale the duo proceeded to carry their purchase through the streets of Providence.

Immediately, the local gendarmes hauled them down to the bastille congratulating themselves for alertness in capturing the two "thieves."

Before a charge could be filed the youths produced the bill of sale for the police captain. After checking its validity the police mogul had to cancel his dreams of fitting the paid with stripes and let them go.

Within five minutes after their release, they were again escorted to the station by two other cops who saw them carrying the obviously stolen barber pole.

Again the police captain, a bit exasperated, was forced to point to the exit sign.

A half hour later two cruiser cops sought to stop a "typical college prank," again bringing the two students with the barber pole before the bleary-eyed captain.

Did you know?

The Yo-Yo aborigines of Bongo-Bongo in the year 1482 invented a system for making railroad engines out of dehydrated mothballs. A by-product of this form of manufacture was macaroni. These industrious natives also invented spaghetti—they saved what came out of the middle of the macaroni.

'Audrey' stars have wealth of experience --

A recent interview with Berkley Forsythe found the Tom Tom Revue director extolling the merits of his musical leads, Jackie Zerbe and Don Sarooian for the presentation of "Audrey."

The mad dramatist reported that his prodigies have a wealth of theatrical experience. Jackie was the featured singer in Chi Omega's first place extravaganza for the 1950 Ma-ic Day skits.

A graduate of Benson High School, Miss Zerbe played the lead in "The Misogynists," a snappy high school revue. Other roles in her career included Benson's presentations of "Goldfish Bowl," "Starlight Revue," "The Corn is Green," et alia.

OU students may remember her in "Tobias and The Angel."

Don Sarooian played one of the "braves" in last year's play, "Ten Little Indians." He may be particularly remembered for his sharp Navajo footwork, adding an authentic note to the production.

Previous work

Don is no stranger to Tom Tom Revue work, singing a solo, and doing quartette and chorus work in the 1950 production. He also had parts in a community playhouse musical.

Forsythe, near the cracking point owing to the strain of risers still on OU's stage plus his own bad stage designs, may find solace in the outstanding talent for the 1952 Tom Tom Revue.

The responsibility of designing the stage has fallen on the shoulders of Phil Abramson, who will also play a principal role in the show.

Risers Clog

Even if the stage drawings were complete and approved, however, Forsythe stated that work could hardly begin on the stage due to the risers that are being used for the Christmas convocations.

But come what may, "Audrey" will be presented as the Tom Tom Revue on the nights of Jan. 11 and 12.

Revue chorus readies for intensive rehearsal grind

The 16 members of the "Audrey" chorus for the Tom Tom Revue are backing up and diving into an intensive rehearsal schedule.

Of the 16 members, six are doing their second Revue under the direction of Rollie Klopfleisch, music director. Almost all of the remaining members were supplied from the ranks of the Freshman Class.

Klopfleisch will be rehearsing his chorus about five days a week between now and Dec. 25.

Indians seek second victory against Doane Tigers in first road contest

Sporting a win in their first time out this season, the OU cagers will travel to Crete, Nebr., tonight to try for their second victory at the expense of the Doane Tigers.

It will be the first road game of the year for Coach Don Pflasterer's cagers as they begin a rugged 20-game schedule.

Pflasterer is expected to work his team in combinations against the Tigers tonight. One combination has Don Claussen at the center post, Bob Rose and Fred Shinrock at forwards, and Bob Mackie and Joe Gurnett at the guards.

Claussen shifts

Then, Pflasterer can put Lee Nelson in at center and shift Claussen to forward, benching Rose and substitute Bob Moscrey for either Gurnett or Mackie.

The varsity should be at full strength for the Tigers, as Lowell Zeplin is back in shape after sitting out practice four days with a strained ankle. Claussen, who has been battling the flu bug all week, is also expected to be in top shape.

The Indian five displayed a high scoring attack against the alumni by racking up 73 points on a potentially great fast break. Pflasterer has spent this week polishing the fast break for the Doane tilt.

Tigers score

The Doane Tigers are no slouches at scoring either, as they piled up 77 counters against York College last Tuesday in the season opener for the Tigers. They buried York, 77-49.

Tonight's contest may turn out to be a battle of the guards, as Doane's attack Tuesday was led by guard Kent Newmyer who potted 15 points for the Tigers.

Bob Mackie is Omaha's leader, as he poured 16 counters through the hoop against the alums.

Strong at post

The center post seems to be a strong position for the Tigers as the two pivot men combined for 22 points against York.

The Tigers came up with two rookies that displayed scoring punch in Stan Hale and Bill Boon. They each netted nine points in their first game.

Another game has been added to the Omaha University schedule, rounding out a 20-game slate. It will be a Feb. 19 battle against the Maroons from Morningside in the Omaha Fieldhouse.

OUWI to hold Christmas party at children's home

On Monday, OUWI members will move to the Creche Home for Children for a pre-season Christmas party.

Names of the children are posted in the PE Hut and every interested is asked to sign by the name of the child that they wish to give a present.

Irene Lister is general chairman for the party.

ISA and Chi Omega are tied for the top of the OUWI volleyball standings with three victories and no defeats.

Unaffiliated I is in third place with a victory, tie and a loss. Unaffiliated II has won one out of three contests for fourth place.

Shinrock and Mackie—newcomers break into starting lineup for tonight's clash with Doane at Crete.

Ten sign for 'mural basketball loop; Theta's grab top in bowling league

Ten groups have signed up for the coming intramural basketball season. Besides all five fraternities, the Otoes, Pawnees and Blackhawks plus ISA and the ROTC have thrown their hats into the ring.

Practice sessions for the mural cagers began last Tuesday and the schedule for workouts on Friday afternoon is set for the ROTC from 1 to 3 while Phi Epsilon Pi takes over from 3 to 5. On Monday the Blackhawks will toil from 1 to 3.

Theta's lead

Theta Phi Delta held a slim one game lead on the Blackhawks in the intramural bowling loop. The Theta's have 15 wins in 21 starts while the Hawks have managed to win just 14 games.

ISA and Sigma Phi Epsilon are knotted for third place with 12 and nine records. However yesterday's bowling results were unavailable for the deadline.

Theta Phi Delta has a commanding margin in the inter-fraternity kegling league with an 11-1 mark. Far back in the runnerup slot is the Sig Eps with seven wins in 12 games.

B Team opens season against Doane tonight

Papoose Coach Tom Brock's cagers will get their first workout of the season tonight as they meet the Doane B team. Game time is 6 p.m. preceding the varsity contest.

Coach Brock's charges have been working hard for their first game, working on tip and out-of-bounds plays during the week.

Brock combines

Like the varsity, Brock has two combinations on his second team to throw against the opposition.

In one combination, Brock has Larry Johnson at center, John Cottrell and Merlyn Fratt at the forwards, and Dan Petersen and Aksel Schmidt working at the guards.

Grades hurt

Other team members are Wayne Wagner, Ron Benson, Dick Smith and Marvin Decker.

Ineligibility has hit the Papoose squad hard, as Brock has lost Bob Chandler and Ron Woodle via the low grades route.

Varsity thwarts alumni bid in season cage start, 73-57

By Bob Peck

Scoring the first 14 points of the game, Omaha U's varsity thrashed the alumni, 73-57, last Saturday night in the Fieldhouse.

Freshman Bob Mackie sparked the OU attack with six baskets and four free throws while Alum Coach Ernie Flecky was high man for the grads with 12.

With Mackie and Fred Shinrock firing the attack, the Indians hustled to a 14-0 lead before Bob Schleiger snapped the cords with a field goal.

However the alumni began working more like a machine in the second period and rebounded from a 22-7 deficit at the quarter to close at the half trailing 36-25.

Omaha coasts

In the last half, the Red and Black were content to slowly outrun the grads and began to increase the bulge until the game was iced.

The waning seconds of the game were turned into mass mayhem when the alums threw in all 11 men, five on offense and six on defense.

Fred Schneider, 47-year-old long shot wizard, played in the first and last quarters and rimmed several mid-court shots, but failed to hit the scoring column.

Tosses improve

A turnover from last year, Omaha looked surprisingly well on the free throw line. The Indians meshed 19 of 28 charity tosses.

Don Claussen, OU pivot, was runnerup in scoring with a 13 point total while Bob Rose and Bob Moscrey trailed with eight markers.

Behind Flecky in the alumni scoring list were Schleiger and Glen Eckstrom who tallied nine points.

Whites click

In the Papoose intra-squad preliminary, the favored Reds fell to the upstart Whites by a 47-40 margin.

The next home game for the Indians will be against Sioux Falls College Tuesday.

Christie receives mention in small college selections

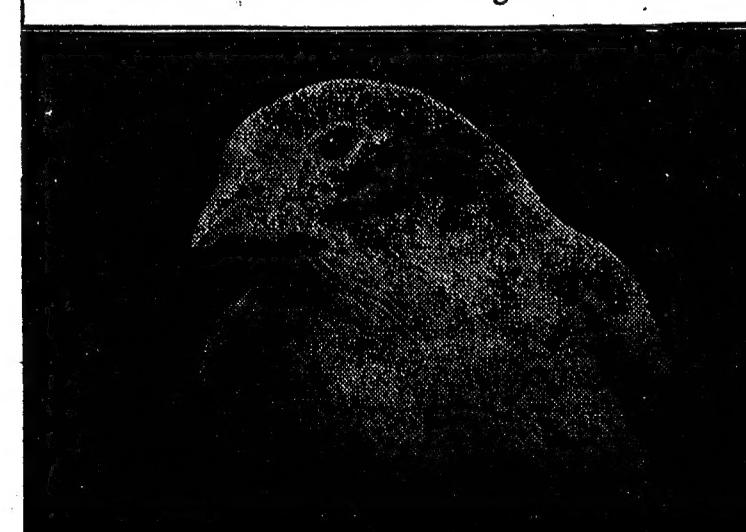

Keith Christie, number one offense leader for the OU eleven during the past season, was placed on the honorable mention list in Little All-American ratings.

Little All-American teams honor the gridiron stars of small colleges who are excluded from the big time all-star squads.

A junior, Christie led all the Indians in total offense with 880 yards, 462 via the air lanes and 418 on the ground.

Keith also is the co-holder of the scoring lead at the end of the season with a total of seven touchdowns.

Want to Get Homework Done Faster?

Your homework can be done faster and more effectively when your study light is right. Eye strain and eye fatigue caused by poor light make it hard to read—hard to concentrate.

Provide plenty of glare-free light at your study table—and remember, eyesight is priceless, good light is cheap.

Registrar names dates for spring registration

Registration week for the second semester will be Jan. 7 to 11, Miss Alice Smith, registrar, announced this week.

Class schedules will be out when school reopens Jan. 2 after Christmas vacation. Professors will be available for consultation during the remainder of that week and the following week. Hours will be posted on the professors' office doors.

Jan. 11 deadline

All students must register by 5 p.m. Friday, Jan. 11. Those who have not completed registration at that time must wait until Jan. 28. Miss Smith urged students to register early.

Statements of fees will be available in the business office Jan. 23 for those students who have completed registration by Jan. 11.

Late fees

Late registration fees will be charged Jan. 29. Second semester classes begin that day.

Student Center will lock doors at 3 next Friday

The Student Center will close early next Friday.

Center doors will be locked after 3 p.m., according to Miss Carolyn Auten, cafeteria manager.

Reason for the early closing is the annual cafeteria staff Christmas party. The Student Center will resume its usual hours after Christmas vacation.

Different slant

Vocations Day gets overhaul

Vocations Day will take on a different slant in '52.

A series of week-long vocational seminars will be held at OU beginning Feb. 11. These seminars will replace the old practice of one Vocations Day for all departments.

Each seminar will last one week and will cover one specific vocational field. Exhibits and talks by people in the specific fields will be held each week.

The incomplete weekly schedule and seminar sponsors is as follows: Feb. 11, accounting, Paul Crossman; Feb. 18, elementary education, Dr. Frances Holliday; Feb. 25, physics, John G. McMillan; March 3, engineering, Dean C. W. Helmstaedter, and March 10, real estate, C. Glenn Lewis.

Christmas Convocation to feature Yuletide music next Friday

Omaha University students will start the holidays off right with the annual Christmas Convocation next Friday in the auditorium at 9:30 a.m. The program will include yuletide singing, religious services and short discussions on the Holiday season.

The University Chorus, under the direction of Martin W. Bush, of the Music Department, will handle some of the musical selections. Handling other Christmas songs will be soloists Barbara Comstock, Frank Lepinski, Arline Madsen, Robert Cahill, LeRoy Damhoff and Millicent Wheeler.

Christmastide songs to be offered during the program include "Silent Night," "O Holy Night," "Sleep Holy Babe" and "The Three Ships."

The religious services will be conducted by the Rev.

Classes will run on the usual shortened schedule.
